

We are Comerge, a young team of highly-qualified software developers and interaction designers. Our goal is to jointly realise great software solutions with a distinct focus on the needs of the customer. To reach this goal, we rely on an agile software process and a strong team that helps shape Comerge.

To support our team in Zurich, we are looking to hire immediately or by arrangement a motivated and flexible with a degree in interaction design or web/mobile development. You have a love for creative work with FramerJS, Adobe After Effects and Sketch and know your way around HTML, CSS preprocessors, JavaScript and git. You create modern designs, you are technologically flexible, and you like working in a solution-oriented environment based on an agile development process. You have good communication skills, you are a team player and enjoy your work.

Interaction Designer (m/w) 100%

As an interaction designer at Comerge, you join our UX designer to support and advise our software developers in interesting projects in the area of mobility, logistics and robotics. You are not afraid to challenge existing design solutions and you can support your opinions with latest research in the field of Human Computer Interaction. You can take static wireframes/ high fidelity mockups to the next level by creating interactive prototypes with beautiful animations. You take over quality control of the developed software solutions with respect to usability and accessibility and ensure continuing education of our team in these domains.

At Comerge, we strive to reach a balance between independent work and collaboration within the team, resulting in a pleasant and productive working environment. Respect, self-responsibility, and collegiality are at the center of our company ethics.

Are you looking for a new and interesting challenge in a modern working environment with a motivated and dynamic team near Zurich Sihlcity? Send us your detailed application including a link to your online portfolio/blog today by email or post.
